Once more, innocent children have become casualties in the ongoing cultural revolution. The state of Oregon recently prohibited Jessica Bates, a mother of five, from becoming certified as a foster care parent. Why? Oregon's Department of Human Services requires foster parents to "respect, accept and support the race, spiritual beliefs, sexual orientation, gender identity and gender expression, disabilities, national origin, cultural identities, immigration status and socioeconomic status of a child or young adult in the care or custody of the Department." As a Christian, Jessica told state officials that she respects everyone, but that she believes "God gives us our gender/sex and it's not something we get to choose." In other words, she cannot in good conscience support any effort to try and change one's biological sex. The post Oregon Discriminates Against Christian Adoptive Parents appeared first on Jim Daly.
