Mom and Dad, are you a tugboat or a rudder? You can tell by the way you motivate your children. Tugboat parents get their children going the right direction by pushing and pulling them through life. There's a lot of nagging, mild threats, and endless warnings against the consequences of bad choices. I think every parent has done that. I know I've grabbed the rope and started to pull when one of my boys hasn't made a good decision. The post Finding Better Ways to Communicate with Your Children appeared first on Jim Daly.
