The webinar recording for "Using Chronicling America for Historical Research: The Atlanta Campaign of the American Civil War" is now available. Join the Library of Congress in exploring historical events, such as those in the American Civil War, using [^]Chronicling America, a free digital collection of over 20 million pages from American newspapers published between 1770 and 1963. The talk demonstrates search strategies for names, places, and events in this vast collection. The methods can also be used to research general military history and other events.
